Providing Quality Care to People With MS 1 Hour Aide In-Service

Featuring: Suzanne Carron, Vice President Programs & Services, National MS Society

DATE RECORDED: August 6, 2014

This is a 1 hour pre-recorded educational program.

Home care aides are often the health care professionals who frequently support individuals with MS living in their home. The goal of this presentation is to increase the home health care aides knowledge of what MS is, the common symptoms, treatment options, safety issues, emotional issues and how the MS Society can be a partner in providing quality care to individuals with MS and ultimately for the home care aide to feel more comfortable serving this population.

Presenter: Suzanne Carron began her work at the National MS Society in the Gateway Area Chapter in 1999 first as a program manager overseeing their wellness, family, education and therapeutic exercise programs. Currently, she is the Vice President of Programs & Services providing oversight and management of programs, services, and advocacy including implementing professional education programs and outreach to health professionals, committee management, staff liaison to Centers for Comprehensive MS Care, Research Advocate program, and locally-funded researcher.

This training was designed to meet the needs of aides who provide a variety of services in the home setting. This training meets the Aide In-Service requirement for the Division of Senior & Disability Services and the Bureau of Home Care and Rehabilitative Standards of the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services.
