Documentation Essentials for the Home Health Clinicians Series

A 2-part teleconference series for all home health featuring...

DeAnn Briscoe, BSN, RN, COS-C

Senior Clinical Education Consultant, Foundation Management Services

January 20 & February 3, 2016 ♦ 10:00—11:00 a.m. CST

The increase in claim reductions and denials in the home health industry indicates a lack of accurate clinical documentation. The clinician’s understanding of essential documentation to support reasonable and necessary services according to CMS’ guidelines is crucial in avoiding denials for your agency. This series will improve the clinician’s knowledge of CMS’ regulations regarding medical necessity and reasonable and necessary skilled services.

Documentation Essentials for the Home Health Clinician: Part 1

Wednesday, January 20, 2016 • 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CST

This teleconference explores common denials/claim reductions from Medicare audit groups as well as strategies to support regulatory requirements of reasonable and necessary skilled services, medical necessity, and homebound status.

Documentation Essentials for the Home Health Clinician: Part 2

Wednesday, February 3, 2016 • 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CST

This teleconference will focus on specific problematic documentation issues related to nursing and therapy which can lead to claim reductions or denials by medical review groups. Participants will gain an understanding of specific documentation strategies to utilize in their clinical notes.
