

Clinical Documentation Improvement That Includes Virtual Visit Documentation

Webinar • Wednesday, December 16, 2020 • 12:00 — 1:30 pm CST

Clinical Documentation is “telling the patient’s story” and clearly showing the value of the home care services. Few people see the patient and everyone else must read the story. To provide a foundation for CDI Programs, agencies must educate clinicians and provide continuous analytic feedback for staff and management. Documentation does not need to be excessive, but it must be accurate and defensible.

Objectives:

- Be able to define CDI
- Gain knowledge of documentation to meet regulatory requirements
- Monitor CDI Programs with Benchmarks and Metrics

Presenters: Laura Page-Greifinger, BSN, MPA, Consultant/Thought Leader, McBee, Wayne, PA has more than 35 years of senior-level healthcare management experience, developing new programs for post-acute providers, including integrated healthcare services, designed to mesh with the operating entity’s mission and goals. Laura started nine separate agencies that spanned certified skilled services, Long-Term Home Health Care Program (LTHHCP), private duty, hospice, and early intervention programs.
